Paine's Celery Compound

CURES Nervous Prostration Nervous Headache Neuralgia, Nervous Weakness, Stomach and Liver Diseases, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia and all affections of the Kidneys

WEAK NERVES.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND is a Nerve Tonic which never fails. Containing Celery and Coca, those wonderful nerve stimulants, it speedily cures all nervous disorders.

RHEUMATISM

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND purifies the blood. It drives out the lactic acid, which causes Rheumatism, and restores the blood-making organs to a healthy condition. It is the true remedy for Rheumatism.

KIDNEY COMPLAINTS

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND quickly restores the liver and kidneys to perfect health. This curative power, combined with its nerve tonics, makes it the best remedy for all kidney complaints.

DYSPEPSIA

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND strengthens the stomach, and quiets the nerves of the digestive organs. This is why it cures even the worst cases of Dyspepsia.

CONSTIPATION

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND is not a cathartic. It is a laxative, giving easy and natural action to the bowels. Regularity surely follows its use.

About thirty yacht owners have signified their intention of sailing to Portland with Commodore Converse and Fleet Captain Jordan of the Hull Yacht Club. The big boats in the club are going on the cruise. The Fugenie Sylvie, Albatross, Annie S Wimbus, Adrienne, White Cap, Cyprus, Galatea and Arethusa

Among last week's imports at Portland were 20,000 railroad ties, 5,504 cases of canned lobsters, 3,000 live lobsters, 111 cases canned halibut, 3,000 pounds of junk, 21 puncheons and 15 tierces of molasses. The exports include 1,39,702 feet of lumber, 16,464 pounds of tobacco, 8,600 shingles, 8,267 pounds of bread, 2,000 pounds oleomargarine

Laura Moore, who hails from Portland, was walking along the edge of the frog pond in Boston Common, Saturday, watching the antics of two spaniels, when she stepped backward into the water. Nobody aided her but she managed to get out by herself. Then she missed her shawl, and saw that floating in the pond. She jumped in and secured it. Then she was taken to Lagrange street station where her clothes were dried, and she was put on her way rejoicing

St Johns Commandery, of Providence, R I, will visit Portland, Wednesday, as the guests of Portland Commandery. The visiting Sir Knights will arrive at 1.40 p. m. when they will be received at the station by their Portland friends, and be escorted to the Falmouth Hotel. After a short rest the visitors will be escorted to a steamer for a sail down the bay, a lunch being provided during the sail. About eight o'clock the party will reach Greenwood Garden (which will be reserved exclusively for the Sir Knights), returning to the city late in the evening. On Thursday morning, the visiting Sir Knights will be given a drive about the city, returning home on the noon train

Saturday was one of the few real hot days from which Portland people suffer in summer. The mercury ran up to 95 at 1 P. M., and the heat was baking. Several people were overcome by the heat. William Glidden, at work on the new reservoir, was taken home insensible. Richmond H Gore, a teamster, was seriously affected. Mr Smith, cook of the Merchant's Exchange Hotel, was slightly affected. Mr Hatch, a teamster, fell from his team. Mr McDonough, who lives on Adams street was slightly affected by a sunstroke. Mr Cregan was struck down on Commercial street. A workman at the Union Depot was taken home insensible. A horse attached to an ice cart, fell on the street from the effects of the heat. Many people were slightly affected, but it was not thought any fatalities will be reported

Lincoln

The Boothbay Register reports that in a recent thunder shower lightning struck the house at Southport occupied by Rev S M Dunton and wife, passing under the bed posts of the bed in which they were asleep, ripping up the floor but not injuring the occupants. The damage to the house was $150

Oxford

The stable of Samuel B Twitchell, of Bethel, burned, Monday morning, together with hay and farming utensils. The horses, cattle and hogs and some of the carriages were saved. Insurance on buildings, $1,500. Hay and carriages $800. Foundation, $250. Cause of fire unknown

Saturday night, the house of Urban Shorey, of Gorham, N H, was entered and his watch and about $100 in money was taken. One of the men was arrested at Gilead and the watch and $21 was recovered, and another was arrested in the barn of Wm W Mason, at Bethel, and $21 more of the money recovered. The arrest was made by Sheriff Wormwell of Bethel, and Mr Shaw, of Gorham, N H

The late Mayor Gates, of Portland, Oregon, and ex Mayor Paine, of Walla-Walla, W T, resided in their boyhood days in the town of Mercer. They left the home of their nativity about twenty years ago, and both, by untiring zeal and integrity, rose to positions of favor and trust in their adopted country. When in Mercer they lived only one-half mile distant from each other

Waldo

For several months, E L Bean & Co, of Searsmont, have been missing goods from their store, and Friday, F. A. Dunton, who occupies a tenement in the same building, was arrested as he was entering the store through a scuttle in the floor. He confessed that he had been getting his living and many other things from there for a long time, and also that he took goods from their other store. He was taken to Liberty, and tried before Judge Knowlton and bound over to the October term of court in $200 bonds

York.

The York Society have selected Berry's Hotel, Buxton, and Friday, June 29th, for their annual reunion. Trains will leave Portland & Rochester station at 7.30 and 9.30 A. M., and 12.25 P. M. The committee wish to know as near as is now possible how many are going, that all going may be provided for. Those intending to go will confer a favor by informing the secretary, Mr. D. B. Dicker, how many tickets are wanted, as early as Wednesday, the 25th. Music will be furnished by the Buxton Cornet Band.

In order to properly perform the stern and exacting duties pertaining to the office of "Chief Marshal" at the recent graduating exercises of Vassar College, the fair occupant of that position wore a gown of white silk en traine, opening over a petticoat of gold brocade, and carried a large bouquet of Marechal Niel roses. The swish of that white silk train was doubtless awe inspiring and kept the girls in excellent order

Joseph Pulitzer, editor and owner of the New York World, is blind. He has sailed for Europe in the hope of having his eyesight restored by rest and expert treatment. His vision is practically gone, for he can only see a confusion of black spots. The disease is a complication of myopsy and paresis of the optic nerve, and it has resisted the efforts of the best oculists in America, who can give to him only the faintest confidence of benefit from a foreign trip

The maiden name of the late Mrs Emery A Storrs, of Chicago, was Carrie Mead. She and her future husband first met as fellow students at a school in Buffalo N Y. She was then fourteen and he sixteen years old. Five years later they were married, and their married life, extending through more than thirty years, was a conspicuous and most admirable example of complete fidelity, devotion and happiness. His death was a blow from which she never recovered

Humbug continues to prosper, even if this is the nineteenth century. An "astrologer" is raking in the ducats in New York city by pretending to tell fortunes by means of moles. He has printed on cards four outlines of a female figure. His clients on their first visit are provided with a set of the cards, which they take home and mark in just the right spots with the moles which they happen to bear. Then they return to the fortune teller and he reads their attributes and destiny from the diagrams as filled out. His customers are so many that usually one has to wait in the ante-room an hour or so for an audience

The Colorado badge surpasses all others worn at the Chicago Convention. It is a blue silk badge with the word "Colorado" in silver lettering across its face. At the top of the badge, beneath the lettering, there hangs a silver dollar of the mintage of 1888, with the Goddess of Liberty in profile. The dollar is an actual one, and hangs suspended from a chain inserted in its upper edge and then attached to the cross-bar of the badge. But this does not end the badge's glory. Below the dollar there hangs the golden miner's pickaxe and shovel crossing, and suspended from them is a silver bucket filled to the brim with gold.

The most beautiful bridal chamber ever seen was one recently fitted up by an English Duke for his bride. Her favorite flower is the daffodil, and it predominates in the decorations. The ceilings and the walls are of a pale grayish green and gold. The fringe and dado are of dull-gold canvas silk, hand-embroidered in white daffodils and narcissi. The chandeliers have for globes opaline glass on the same flower designs. The velvet carpet is gray-green, sprinkled with golden flowers. The furniture is of heavy English oak, carved with winged Loves, heads, and the draperies and window hangings are of Spanish lace, in conventional designs of daffodils.

Colonel Donn Piatt, who is equally noted as judge, soldier, journalist and author, has lived during the past six or seven years at his magnificent country place in the Mac-o-Cheek Valley in Ohio. His house there, which was built at a cost of $75,000, is described as being a handsome as a baronial castle, and is surrounded by beautiful gardens. The place is well stocked with high bred cattle and fine horses.

A committee of the faculty of Harvard College has just submitted to that body a report on the whole subject of athletics and athletic sports in college, which is in the main very favorable to their encouragement. Certain objections brought against them are fully considered by the committee. With regard to the allegation that they are not favorable to the health of the students the committee concludes emphatically to the contrary. It says also, that athletic sports do not seriously interfere with attendance on college course, that participation in them lowers neither the standing of those who take part in them nor the general standing of the college, and that they have in the main a good moral influence upon those who take part in them. In the expenses which they involve no serious objection is found. About 150 students contribute less than $10 each a year, and more than 200 contribute nothing.

It Was a Lively Article

BUT IT DIDN'T PLEASE THE SUBJECT

Robert J Burdette, whom everybody knows whether they ever saw him or not, used to run a little daily paper in Peoria, Ill. I believe it was Peoria—anyhow it was the paper he enjoyed running so much, because there never was any uncertainty about it. He knew positively every Monday morning that there wouldn't be enough money to pay the compositors Saturday night

He hadn't written so much good humor then as he has since, but he used to crop out once in a while—he couldn't help it. One day a prominent citizen of Peoria got into trouble with ... the amount of his charge ... took ... and fought ... the blood ... made it ... for him ... and got pretty excited before he finished. The next morning Bird ... pretty nearly a column ... but ... turned his fancy loose and filled ... He thought ... quietly chuckled all the way home that night after he wrote it and in the morning read it over to see if the boys had got it ... up all right and smiled sort of inwardly to himself again

About the middle of the afternoon the man who had the trouble came in. Burdette trembled a little at first because he didn't know how he might have taken it, but the man wore a broad grin on his face and seemed to be very much tickled over it

"That was a good one ... in the Herald this morning," said the man

"Tr—ye—do you think so?" said Burdette

"Oh, capital—look it ... class. Did you write it?"

"Oh, yes, I scribbled it off in a hurry last night. We have to have something to fill up."

"Of course. But it was really grand. I didn't know you could do as well as that," went on the man enthusiastically

"Oh I didn't think much of it," returned Burdette modestly. "If I had only had a little more time perhaps I might have made something out of it."

"Oh you had time enough plenty of time I assure you. It was fine. Of course I didn't really do all you said I did"

"Oh of course not. Certainly not. Got to have something lively in a news paper you know."

"I see—especially in a live local paper. You understand it."

"I think so. Of course I didn't yell like a man with his foot in a lawn mower all the time I was having the controversy."

"Oh no—we have to exaggerate a little"

"I see. And then I didn't raise the hackman up and pound the face of the earth with him till the police stopped me for wearing out the paving."

"No not at all—had to make it lively, you know."

"Of course. Then I didn't chase him into the country half a mile did I now?"

"I never heard that you did. I just slipped that in. You know a local paper—"

"I understand. Then of course I didn't roar so coming back that people thought there was a hail storm coming"

"Oh, you didn't roar at all. I made that part up to make it lively."

"I thought so. Then I didn't stand on the corner and howl till I was tired and say I could lick any hackman who ever looked through a collar, and go around the streets cracking my heels together and saying I was from Bitter Creek where it wasn't more than a foot wide?"

"Of course not—nothing of the kind at all. I just put that in—got to in a small town with a daily paper, you see."

"I notice you have to. It was a funny piece, take it all together"

"Y-e-s, I thought perhaps it was a little funny," admitted Burdette a little uneasily

"You say in it the hackman was a small man?"

"Why, yes, rather small, I understood."

"Probably not as small as you are?"

"Oh, no, no, I presume not. I'm not very big you see. Pleasant weather we're having Major."

"Y-e-s, very pleasant—a little cold for hackmen and some editors I know of. Probably, then, if I licked the hackman there wouldn't be any doubt but that I could lick you?"

"Oh, n-no, no, sir, not a particle of doubt. Going to the caucus to-night, Colonel?"

"I expect to be there, but you won't—you'll be in the hospital—you little insignificant one-horse country editor," and he reached out and got Burdette by the collar. "Chased the man out beyond the fair grounds, did I? Roared like the eight-thirty express coming back, did I?" and he began jabbing Burdette up and down like the dasher of an old fashioned churn. "My actions would have made a fish laugh, eh? Howled around till I made the world's back ache, did I?" and all the time he was dancing around the office with Burdette at arm's length. "Oh, you're going to be the great American humorist? No doubt of it at all! You'll make the universe double up and roll on the grass some day. You're funny, oh, so very funny! Just give you a little more practice on me and you can start out lecturing," and it's hard to tell what would have become of poor Burdette if a big pressman hadn't come in just then, with his sleeves rolled up and ink on the side of his nose, and relieved him. The pressman fought the man ten minutes before he managed to tear his coat off and shut up both his eyes and fire him down the stairs and half way across the sidewalk. He accomplished it at last, however, and went back to work and Burdette gathered himself together and wrote up a solemn account of the death of the oldest Free Mason, who had just passed away.

DYSPEPSIA

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. We know of no remedy for dyspepsia more successful than Hood's Sarsaparilla. It acts gently, yet surely and efficiently, tones the stomach and other organs, removes the faint feeling, creates a good appetite, cures headache, and refreshes the burdened mind. Give Hood's Sarsaparilla a fair trial. It will do you good

Women with pale colorless faces, who feel weak and discouraged, will receive both mental and bodily vigor by using Carter's Iron Pills which are made for the blood, nerves and complexion

THEY MEAN BUSINESS

For many years the manufacturers of Dr Sage's Catarrh Remedy have offered in good faith $500 reward for a case of Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure. The remedy is sold by druggists at only 50 cents. This wonderful remedy has fairly attained a world wide reputation. If you have dull heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse watery and acrid, at others thick tenacious mucous purulent bloody and putrid; if the eyes are weak, watery and inflamed, if there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter together with scabs from ulcers, the voice being changed and has a nasal twang, the breath offensive, smell and taste impaired, sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility, you are suffering from nasal catarrh. The more complicated your disease, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians

will have nothing to do with "cure alls"—medicines that are advertised to cure everything from a chilblain to a broken neck. Read the list of diseases that Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure: Affections of the throat and lungs, incipient consumption, disordered liver, sore throat, bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, ulcers, tumors and swellings caused by scrofula and bad blood, fever and dropsy. This seems like a "cure-all" but it is not. This great "Discovery" will really cure all these complaints simply because it purifies the blood, upon which they depend, and builds up the weak places of the body. By druggists. d&wlw

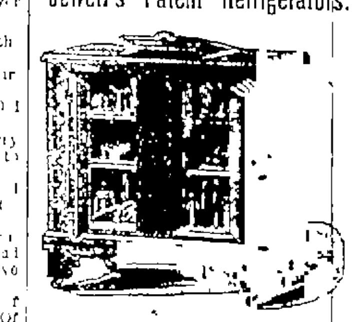

A HAPPY WOMAN

Happy is the woman without bodily ills, but happier is the woman who having them knows of the saving properties of Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When relief has been surely will be upon her, and of it she can contrast her condition with her former one of suffering and appreciate health as none can who have not for a time been deprived of it. The "Favorite Prescription" corrects unnatural discharges and cures all weakness and irregularities. d&wlw

There is no one article in the line of medicines that gives no large a return for the money as a good porous strengthening plaster, such as Carter's Smart Weed and Belladonna Backache Plasters

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. A Boston lady whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

"In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me to buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten

I told him I had taken Hood's Sarsaparilla, knew what it was, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other. OH! MY HEAD.

The pain from Neuralgia and its companion disease Rheumatism is excruciating. Thousands who could be quickly cured are needlessly suffering. Athlophoros will do for them what it did for the following parties:

Williamsport, Ind, Oct 8, 1887

Having been afflicted with neuralgia for the past four years, and trying almost every thing but in vain, I finally heard of Athlophoros. After taking one bottle I found it to be helping me and after taking five bottles of Athlophoros and one of Pills, I found that I was entirely well. I think the medicine is positively a sure cure.

The Ticket that Wins.

[Boston Journal.]

In nominating Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana, for the Presidency of the United States the Chicago convention has made a selection which will be cordially approved by the Republican party in all States and sections, and will be ratified we are confident, by the country in November. In Senator Harrison we have a candidate whose personal character is unassailable, and whose record as a soldier and commander in the field and as a Senator at Washington has been in the highest degree honorable. Thoroughly conversant with public affairs, acquainted with men and measures, and endowed with strong intellectual qualities and marked firmness of character, he is well equipped for the high office for which he has been presented. He is a brilliant and well furnished speaker, and has led the Republicans of Indiana in more than one hardly-fought campaign. He has a strong hold upon the respect and affection of the people of his State, and without disparagement of any of the candidates who have been considered, it is safe to say that none of them could be so sure as is Senator Harrison to put Indiana in the column of Republican States. But his strength is by no means limited to Indiana. He will make a splendid run in New York and New Jersey and Connecticut, as well as in the States reckoned as surely Republican.

Hon. Levi P. Morton, of New York, who has received the honor of second place on the Republican National ticket, is a sound business man of comprehensive and progressive views. Like General Harrison's, his ancestry goes back to colonial days, and Mr. Morton's successful career as a banker and public man has afforded admirable illustrations of the solid and sturdy qualities of the stock from which he springs. Mr. Morton possesses in an unusual degree the confidence of the business community, and he has fairly won it by his uprightness and sagacity, while the great mass of our citizens hold his name in gratitude for the part he took in making a resumption of coin payment in the United States a possibility.

A TOWER OF STRENGTH.

[Boston Traveller.]

The last ballot has closed the long struggle in the National Republican Convention, and closed it in a glorious triumph. Hon. Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana, gallant soldier in the Union army, and six years Senator from the State of Indiana, and an incorruptible statesman, is now the standard bearer of the great Republican party. Of all the distinguished ones presented none stood higher for ability, patriotism and popularity than Harrison. In the doubtful State from which he hails he is a tower of strength and secures that electoral vote without question. This grand conclusion of the Republican delegates will give joy to the entire Republican party, and inspiring the country with the exultation and enthusiasm that characterized the election of William Henry Harrison in 1840, the nominee selected to-day will be chosen as the next President of these United States.

RALLY AROUND THE FLAG.

[Concord Monitor.]

The Republican convention at Chicago has done its work well in giving to the Republican party as its standard bearer in the next Presidential election, Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana.

He is a loyal man who served through the War of Rebellion with distinction and a statesman who has served with credit in the United States Senate. The issue is joined. A soldier of the Union army is to lead the Republican party against a Copperhead. Rally round the flag, boys.

THEY ARE ALL SATISFIED.

[Boston Herald, Dem.]

Yet there is no reason why any party man of the Republicans who is satisfied with its platform should not vote for Mr. Harrison. He is a pure man; he is more than sound on the party tenets; he has ability beyond men who have been Republican nominees for the Presidency.

BLAINE'S SHADOW.

[Boston Globe Dem.]

Restrained from nominating Blaine, the convention proceeded to nominate Blaine's shadow. That is the exact size of Benjamin Harrison of Indiana. He is the second shadow cast by Blaine across the Presidential arenas of his time. Garfield was the first. Like Garfield in 1880, Harrison in 1888 is nominated by the grace of James G. Blaine, controller and dictator of the Republican party in convention assembled. The difference between 1880 and 1888 is just this: Garfield was the shadow of Blaine who could not himself be nominated, while Harrison is the shadow of the Blaine who would not himself be nominated.

ON THE PACIFIC SLOPE.

[San Francisco Chronicle.]

Gen. Harrison has been selected as the Republican candidate, not by California, but by the great Republican party in convention assembled. He now stands as the chosen representative of the principles of Republicanism and notably of that grand principle protection, which, as Blaine says, is incalculably greater than any man, and it is the duty and doubtless will be the pleasure of every genuine Republican to give him a cheerful, earnest and hearty support.

WELL EQUIPPED.

[New York World, Dem.]

Harrison's capacity cannot be denied. His public record is free from reproach. He is a prominent citizen of a doubtful State and had the support of its delegates all but unanimously. He has a good soldier record, is a thoroughly equipped lawyer and has had experience as a statesman. He has always been a practical civil service reformer and an extreme protectionist. His nomination excites no enthusiasm yet is one which the warring Republican factions in New York can support without heartburning. His nomination leaves the issue against tariff revision clear cut and distinct and removes all danger of personalities in the campaign. Morton is personally unobjectionable and has long been recognized as a faithful follower of the protection banner.

A WISE CHOICE.

[Portland Press.]

The Republican National Convention began its deliberations last Tuesday. It completed them yesterday with the nomination of Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana, for President, and Levi P. Morton, of New York, for Vice President. Of course there will be a twinge of disappointment that Mr. Blaine is not the candidate, but it must be remembered that he is not the candidate simply because he declined to be. Had he not written the Florence and Paris letters he would undoubtedly have been the nominee of the convention, and that too by acclamation.

In selecting Mr. Harrison the convention has made the wisest choice possible under the circumstances.

NO WEAK PLACE.

[Kennebec Journal.]

It is a ticket which will grow stronger and stronger as the people grow more and more familiar with its candidates. It has no weak places. It will be popular with all classes and in all sections. While the Republicans of this State, in company with a large majority of those in other States, would have preferred to have had the leadership of the party intrusted to the eminent statesman who lead it in the last campaign, and who is nearer to the Republican masses of the country than any other man, yet they know that his own expressed wishes alone prevented this from being done spontaneously. They will rally to the enthusiastic support of the splendid ticket nominated at the Chicago convention and the watchword of the party will be Harrison and Morton, Protection and Victory.

THE FLAG VS. THE BANDANNA.

[Lewiston Journal.]

With two such solid an unimpeachable men as Harrison and Morton at the front, the Republican party is in an impregnable position. Led by these candidates and on the Chicago platform, it enters the fight having an immense advantage over the enemy. Its chances were never better. If it ever can win, it should be able to win this time. If, marshalled by two such strong, true and popular men as Harrison and Morton, with a ticket enlisting the business men, the workingmen and the old soldiers, with a banner whose inscriptions appeal to every patriotic instinct, every American interest and every humble fireside in the land—if on these terms the Republican party can't defeat the free trade, Cleveland-wedded, England-loving, vote-suppressing Democracy—if the flag can't overcome the bandanna—when can the party hope to triumph? The Republicans of the country have already begun to feel the thrill of victory.

Maine Will Not Vote For Free Trade.

In the present condition of affairs it would seem to lie within the power of the Democrats of Maine to make that election overwhelming by placing Maine in the Democratic column in September.—Commercial.

But a Democratic victory in Maine would mean an indorsement of the Mills bill, which the Commercial has said is opposed by the lumbermen because it is well calculated to work "a gratuitous injustice to our people." How can the Commercial expect the citizens of this State to shut their eyes to the danger so graphically pointed out in its own columns and vote directly against their own interests? A business man who should from choice have dealings with a firm that was doing all in its power to injure him in preference to one whose interests were identical with his own would be regarded as a fit subject for a lunatic asylum, and yet the Commercial after admitting that the Democratic policy actually means injustice to our business men still suggests that they hold up the hand that would smite them by voting the Democratic ticket. This is unique reasoning, worthy of a paper that lacks the courage to state squarely whether or not it favors free lumber.

INSURANCE.

Insurance upon lives, for the purpose of providing for families, must have a most favorable influence upon the social and moral condition of the community generally, so that a well-founded, well conducted life company like the

is an object of public interest, as its beneficial effects are at least equal to those of any public charitable or philanthropical institution. These effects are produced without any donation, sacrifice, or act of beneficence by the public or by individuals, being the natural and easy results of the spontaneous thrift, prudence and forecast of individuals in conducting their own concerns.

The Daily Massacre

BY ACCIDENTS!

[From the Chronicle, New York, July 7th, 1887.]

"How many accidents happen every day?" is one of the first questions for which an answer will be sought in Surgeon Billings' statistics. Well, this inquiry is partially answered in the record given of the number of fatal accidents daily. No less than one hundred persons are killed by accidents every day. That is, during working hours, every five minutes has its victim—twelve times an hour a human life is extinguished by unforeseen and fortuitous causes. It appears by Dr. Billings' figures that about eleven persons in every one thousand are disabled by sickness or injuries received by accidents. Hence, at least 550 000 persons are constantly on the sick list in the United States. It further appears that about one-seventh of the whole number sick, have been disabled by accidental injuries. Therefore about 80,000 persons in the United States are constantly "laid up for repairs." Eighty thousand persons make a tolerably big multitude, and we are inclined to think that very few are aware that the army of the disabled is as large as this.

What a field exists for accident insurance in the United States! The one hundred daily sudden deaths and the eighty thousand persons constantly disabled, furnish all the evidence that need be had of the perils to life and limb that are always with us.

City Water Works Co., of Marinette, Wis., First Mortgage, 6 per cent Sinking Fund Bonds, Due 1907.

INTEREST AND PRINCIPAL PAYABLE IN NEW YORK, at the office of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co., the Trustee under the mortgage. Denomination of Bonds $1,000 and $500.

Marinette is a substantial city situated on Green Bay (Lake Michigan). Its population in 1880 was 4100, and it is now about 13,000. Assessed valuation, $2,035,271, real value $7,065,000, bonded debt but $30,000.

The city has excellent railway connections, a good harbor for shipping, and the Menominee River with a fall of (about 24 feet within the city limits, affords 6000 horse power for extensive manufactures.

The Water Works Company is incorporated under a charter granted by the State of Wisconsin. The city granted the franchise, giving the Company the exclusive right to lay water mains.

The water is taken from Green Bay (Lake Michigan). The distribution system comprises 14 miles of cast iron mains, ranging in diameter from 20 inches down to 6 inches. Pumping capacity 4,000,000 gallons daily.

These bonds are not only a first mortgage on the above water works system, but are guaranteed principal and interest, making them doubly secure for investment.

Price, par and interest, subject to advance without notice.

Tar, Bloodroot, and Wild Cherry

COUGH CURE.

The most popular Cough Remedies of the day are those which contain the drugs mentioned above, and this is so in spite of the unpleasant taste and appearance which the Tar gives to them. Knowing this, we have endeavored to produce something in the form of a Syrup that should hold in solution the active ingredients of those valuable curatives, and at the same time present an attractive appearance and agreeable taste. How perfectly we have succeeded, the medicine itself will attest. We defy the efforts of every manufacturer in the wide world to produce results superior to what we show you in this elegant compound of TAR, BLOODROOT AND WILD CHERRY, and

We Challenge Every Cough Cure in the Market

To Effect Greater Cures than this Has Done.

Especially in Chronic Bronchitis and Irritated Throats, caused by poisonous secretions from Catarrhal troubles. We realize the fact that no one remedy will meet the demands of all cases. Coughs arise from many causes, and require a proper diagnosis and the application of appropriate remedies that the best results may follow treatment, but there are very many people who suffer from Coughs that are not to be mistaken as to their origin, and may be safely treated by the sufferers themselves when they resort only to safe remedies, the composition of which are KNOWN, and KNOWN to be HARMLESS, as well as POTENT. There is no secret about this remedy, except the process of making. It contains just what we tell you, and nothing more. It is perfectly healthy to use, or in other words, it produces no results that are not good. All Cough remedies containing opiates derange the stomach. This Cough Syrup contains nothing but drugs which have a tendency to aid digestion.

Use it and be cured. Take it and you will be thankful for the pleasant results.

Sold by all druggists and by the proprietors.

Mrs Dickinson, Benjamin Folsom and Speaker Carlisle

Their approach was a signal for a general clapping of hands on the part of the visitors and as soon as the party had taken their places General Collins stepped forward and addressed the president.

Upon concluding Mr. Collins introduced Mr Charles D Jacobs, of Kentucky who read the letter of notification

President Cleveland replied at considerable length, closing as follows

I would not if I could, for myself, nor for you avoid a single consequence of a fair interpretation of my course. It but remains for me to say to you, and through you to the Democracy of the Nation, that I accept the nomination with which they have honored me, and that I will in due time signify such acceptance in the usual formal manner."

The President's remarks were made in an earnest, emphatic manner and were frequently interrupted by applause. This closed the speech making. Then all present proceeded to the state dining room and partook of light refreshments. Afterwards the committee became the guests of the Columbia Club and were driven about the city.

A TERRIBLE FLOOD.

Unparalleled Scene of Disaster in Mexico.

Over Fifteen Hundred Lives Lost

And Two Million Dollars Worth of Property Destroyed.

CITY OF MEXICO, June 26. Telegraphic communication, which has been interrupted for several days by floods, has been restored, and particulars of the disaster on the line of the Mexican Central Railroad, particularly at Leon and Silao, are obtained. During the last ten days the table lands between here and Zacatecas have been visited by unprecedented rains Every mountain rivulet along the Central Railway for more than 230 miles have been converted into destructive torrents, and the valleys present the appearance of lakes Many cities and towns are inundated and Leon and Silao have been partially destroyed.

The First Intimation

received in this city of the disaster in the north was as a telegram from Silao, dated the 18th inst., in which it was stated that 325 houses had been destroyed and that the people were starving On the 20th it was learned that the floods had been more destructive in Leon than in Silao On Monday, the 18th, the river broke over the dykes and flooded the city As the rain fell the river rose rapidly, its volume of water flowing into the town and gradually wearing away the foundations of buildings which commenced to fall as night came on Monday night brought to that city some terrible scenes The people believing themselves secure from the flood went to bed in those parts of the town where the water had not found its way The steady downfall of rain with the extensive water bed of the outlying country

Increased the Flow

of the river and rapidly extended its channel until over half of Leon was under water Houses tumbled in rapidly and the loss of life commenced, unparalleled in the history of any of the great inundations of modern times As the buildings fell the unfortunate sleepers were either crushed to death or drowned A whole night of terror followed Men, women and children fled to the streets in their night clothes, some to find shelter on high ground and others to be swept away by the flood Where houses had stood the night previous, water was surging and groups of people who had been forced by impending danger to seek flight without clothes, were standing about in the rain All the houses which the flood left intact were opened to the unfortunates who were provided with every thing that was available at the time The loss of life up this writing had reached

Into the Hundreds

and many more lives were in imminent peril Wednesday afternoon it ceased raining and the waters commenced to recede It is now estimated that several hundred persons perished There is a strong stench from heaps of rubbish that once formed houses and there must be bodies buried under them There are also bodies still floating in the water The very latest statement places the number of houses destroyed in Leon at 2,224 and the homeless families at more than 2 000 More than 250 bodies have been recovered from ruins and there is no probability that the entire number will fall short of 700 The property loss will reach two millions Many other towns have been badly damaged

Fifteen Hundred Lives Lost

ST LOUIS June 2 A despatch from El Paso says information is received there from the flooded district in Mexico that 1,500 lives were lost and a thousand bodies recovered Leon contained 100 000 inhabitants A large part of it is in ruins The despatch states that 100 miles of the Mexican Central Railroad is impassible and it will be ten days before the mails can get through and twenty before freight ... moved

The exercises began soon after two o clock with a selection by Howe's Orchestra assisted by a number of musicians from this city President Fernald then arose and spoke as follows It is my cheerful duty to welcome you my friends to this occasion one which has been looked forward to for so long a time by all friends of the college It gives me great pleasure on behalf of the college to extend a cordial welcome to the members of the Legislature who by their vote have helped this institution, members of the different societies, the officers of the State, alumni and all others who grace this occasion by their presence, and to assure you that it gives us great pleasure to consecrate this building to the purpose for which it is intended

The college is not what it was twenty years ago when there was but one building with a few students, not then as now did it have the backing of a large number of alumni, or the friendship of many outside the State as at the present day Four features are worthy of notice First, the loyalty of the Trustees and friends of the college, who have shown that devotion which was not satisfied until the object was accomplished, second, that from the beginning until the present the college has had a faculty that had a genius for hard work, third, the prosperity of the college has been from within outward Every advance movement has been an expression of this onward growth The advance in facilities has been rapidly on the increase, and the buildings have become more numerous A demand has been made for this building for its departments of agriculture and natural history. At last we have it at the first possible opportunity, thanks to the efforts of Major Dickey In the development of this plan there will be other needs, and these we shall ask for modestly, but not until there is pressing need We shall ask for money and we mean to develope this institution, and make it what it should be, fourth, the products of the institution are wanted in the market, and there has been a demand for young men educated here, and the demand can scarcely be filled. Hardly can we get the young men through before they are wanted I regard this as one of the fruitful sources which the college has attained. Limitations to the prosperity of the college are the want of means, but I trust that the time is coming when this will be less felt Another limitation has been from want of acquaintance with it. Those in the past who have been against this institution have been almost invariably those who know nothing about it or the work that it was doing

My purpose is not so much to speak of the history of the college, for that will come later, as to give you a hearty greeting, and to hope that you will carry away with you kindly feelings toward this institution. Hearty applause followed the words of the speaker which were listened to with much interest.

Rev. C. F. Allen, D. D, then delivered a most impressive prayer, another selection by the orchestra followed.

The historical address was delivered by Hon. Lyndon Oak, President of the Board of Trustees, and the following is an abstract of the address: In the year 1862, during the Rebellion, Congress projected a new institution for this country, but owing to affairs of greater moment, it attracted little notice at the time. It proposed to give a liberal and practical education together. The old education then dealt with the dead past, the new with the present. The National land grant system upon which the new education had its basis became established in 1862. In 1863 the legislature held its session when the Governor in his message said that, he had no hesitancy in urging the new system upon the members. The legislature voted to accept the act.

The question at first was whether the new institution to be established in Maine should be connected with an existing college or carried on by itself The different claims of Colby, Bates and Bowdoin, and the ideas of their faculties concerning the new project were here set forth by the speaker It was finally decided to have an independent institution, and the bill passed both branches of the legislature The institution was started under discouraging circumstances as but little money could be obtained for buildings, and the matter of location was also a difficult point to settle At last it was decided to establish the college at Orono

The speaker here announced that what had been known as White Hall would in the future be known as Wingate Hall, and President Fernald announced that Brick Hall would in the future be called Oak Hall

Where the instructors for the college were to come from was a problem Experience has since shown that our college must furnish its own The year 1870 was more fruitful than any other year and the Legislature appropriated a large amount for the college The crowning effort of the year 1888, is the erection of the new hall, and its presence will impart dignity, character, and a large amount of usefulness for the institution The fidelity of the giver of this hall Gov Coburn to his Trusteeship, may well be appreciated and he never allowed a business engagement to stand in the way of a meeting of the Board of Trustees notwithstanding the great amount of business which he carried on His memory will ever remain fresh Among the associates of Gov Coburn, is William P Wingate, Esq of Bangor, who has been a most faithful official as have also Hon Nathaniel Wilson, of Orono, Rev S F Dike, of Bath and others Rev C F Allen was called to the Presidency in 1871, and one of his marked characteristics was his warm sympathy with the students The present President of the college a graduate of Bowdoin, became an instructor in 1868 Endowed with great capacity of endurance he has devoted himself with vigor to the institution and his loyalty has placed the college upon a high level The present condition of the college is in striking contrast to that of the years of its beginning The present instructors are graduates, and the accomplished young artist Mr F E Kidder, who is the architect of the building, was a graduate The State College stands out as an example of unique and sturdy independence

The address was followed by another well rendered selection by the orchestra

The report of the Building Committee was made by William T Haines, Esq of Waterville, as follows After considering the merits of the older architects of the State we decided to give the work to Mr F E Kidder a graduate of our college, whose present work is a monument of his skill as an architect The college is indebted to Prof Hamlin for his careful supervision of the work The contract was given to Messrs F & J Philbrook, of Portland for $19 957 The ... heating apparatus was put in by contract ... Messrs Getchell & Co of Bangor ... the work which has been most satisfactory in all respects The fixtures and furniture were put in by W O White of Boston ... being the lowest bidder The committee are much pleased with the work This building as it stands cost $27 ... 03

The next ceremony was the presentation of the keys In the absence of Governor Marble Hon Hannibal Hamlin was invited to conduct that part of the service Mr Hamlin was received with hearty applause and said By an appropriation made by the State this college has received a very beautiful building It is government like ours it is upon education that our free government must rest With the most widely scattered education among our youth Among the gems which fill our country's brow our system of education is the brightest We may hope and expect that as time goes on our common school education may extend to the farthest limits of the country In the absence of Governor Marble the pleasant duty devolves upon me to deliver into your hands the keys of the portals of the doors which I hope may ever remain open to what is just and right and ever remain closed to what is wrong

President Fernald replied by thanking the giver saying that in keeping the keys he did so thankfully and that the purposes of the building would be carried out most faithfully The response for the Department of Natural History was made by Prof Harvey who said The American mind is slow to accept new ideas without demonstration, but that agricultural colleges have grown in favor in this country shows that they fill an important place in education The struggles of the college have given it individuality and a taste for prudence I rejoice that the Natural History Department is to have such a commodious and well arranged laboratory

Professor Balentine responded for the Department of Agriculture as follows In regard to the new building when I saw it completed the satisfaction of mine may be expressed by a young friend of mine who at Christmas said that he had again a dog and everything that he wanted and $5 We have everything we want but the $5 and that we hope we shall have

Hon Samuel Libbey of Orono was called upon and said It affords me great pleasure to congratulate you upon the completion of this building, and I congratulate you as a citizen of the town as I believe I voice the sentiments of the whole body of citizens of Orono, who wish the college the utmost success But above all I congratulate you in behalf of the Senate of 1887 I believe that the building was a necessity and should have been erected years ago The farmers of this State are looking to this college as the headquarters of agriculture This is a fortunate period and institutions of learning are prospering all over the land We are a nation of workers and America stands at the head in the value of its agricultural products Hereafter the farmer is to be instructed as well as the professional man and we are glad that the college is to have such a fine building where experiments may be made

Hon H M Heath, of Augusta, spoke as follows The spirit of opposition which has existed in regard to agricultural colleges, is disappearing and the prospect of this college is an example of what can be accomplished by push and energy The classical course of study will always be the training of the professional man but he who would know the practical every day world must study his mother tongue his country Such a course of study as yours is producing practical men who go out into the world fitted for the battle of life This is the college of the people, and it is giving men who are well fitted out with a knowledge of practical affairs, which are the affairs of the day. The speaker paid a glowing tribute to the late Governor Bodwell who had had the interests of the college at heart, and had helped it in many ways

Representative Cushing, of Turner, spoke as follows Travellers in Rome have their attention called to the magnificent arches They bear on their faces their identity and were erected as marks of triumphs of the Roman emperors The conquests of the present day while of a different character are none the less important. This building is an arch and marks our advancement in art and science Maine men stand among the foremost in our land. Blaine of Maine will always be heard Our representatives in Congress are men of high ability This college has been fostered from its existence by the State, and when it asks for a fish shall it be given a stone? I congratulate you upon the possession of this triumphal arch

Rev. Mr. Davis said that he wished to express his pleasure at being present on the occasion. There is a more parental feeling from the State to this institution, than there has been in the past, and I hope that the State will be liberal in its appropriations for the college.

Major Dickey, of Fort Kent, was then called upon and said: The true policy is to educate the youth of the State. The State should provide, and they should come here free. My influence shall be in favor of the State's paying for the tuition of our boys and girls at this institution. If it is my fortune to be re-chosen to the Legislature I shall ever remember this college. I congratulate you upon the beautiful building.

Mr. H. M. Esterbrooke, in behalf of the alumni, said that he heartily concurred in the numerous congratulations that had been made.

Rev. Dr. Pepper, President of Colby University, was called upon and said I want to say for myself and my university, and I think I can say the same for Bowdoin and Bates, that we are in hearty sympathy with the college and I congratulate you upon the possession of this beautiful building.

The exercises concluded with the singing of the class ode, and the pronouncing of the benediction by Rev Mr Davis

The addresses throughout were of an interesting and congratulatory character and held the close attention of all The music of the orchestra was a source of pleasure to the assemblage

To-day the graduating exercises of the senior class will be held

The reception at the residence of President Fernald last evening was largely attended and the occasion was one of much enjoyment The guests were most hospitably received by the President and Mrs Fernald, and the evening past most enjoyably

After the reception the annual reunions and banquet of the Beta Eta Chapter of Beta Theta Pi, Q T V and Psi Chapter of Kappa Sigma fraternities were held

A GRAND TRIP

Pilgrimage of St. John's Commandery K. T., to Lewiston, Poland Springs White Mountains and Portland

The Commandery, under Eminent Commander Sir D W Maxfield with Sir F W Burr, Generalissimo, and Sir George Lord Captain General, left Bangor last Friday (22d) at 7 15 on a special train The party consisted of about fifty Sir Knights including a delegation from St Aldemar Commandery, Houlton, Sir C H Carlisl Captain General with Sir Knights Bradford and Shaw with about twenty-five ladies, Mr John Tebb and wife, and their invited guests, together with the Bangor Band In all about one hundred persons The train arrived at 11 15 and St John was met by the Lewiston Commandery K T, Eminent Commander Sir A M Roak Sir D B Stevens, Generalissimo and Sir W F Lord, Captain General with their guests and ladies numbering, with the Lewiston Band about one hundred and fifty After a ... in readiness after a preliminary (one hour) survey of Auburn and Lewiston the whole party started for the famed Poland Springs Arriving at Lewiston Junction the scene was lively and interesting The Poland Spring livery was out in force with conveyances for the whole party two hundred and fifty or more, barges, (so-called, but who knows why) tally hos, hacks, coaches and carriages horses decorated with equine millinery of all shades of gay colors and style making a very brilliant display for the procession of four miles to the Springs a ride which will be long remembered by every one who participated especially keeping in mind the experience of the last hill

The Poland House was reached at one o'clock and we found that the half had not been told As the party alighted and beheld the magnificent house, with its great natural beauty of scenery and surroundings with every possible convenience comfort and luxury inside and outside with one accord they all raised their hands with wonder and admiration

Dinner was served at three o'clock and that like everything else at the Poland Spring House, was superb receiving marked attention from the jolly and hungry crowd Dinner over carriages were again taken and in due time the whole party were again in Lewiston and soon in line with two bands for a short march (?) through the streets of Lewiston and Auburn

On account of the proposed reception of St John by Lewiston at its hall in the evening, the street march which might otherwise have been extended to an unreasonable length was confined to about "one hundred and eighty minutes" of time not including lost time for refreshments kindly furnished at intervals while en route Thus, with the thermometer among the nineties inducing abundant perspiration we did our duty and performed the pleasant task assigned to us triangulating the great cities of shoes and spindles so thoroughly that no further survey of those places will be needed for the present generation Sympathising deeply with our fraters of the Lewiston our steps were reluctantly turned toward the De Witt and we took cover to prepare for the evening The genuine hospitality and knightly courtesies at the evening reception the kind attentions of the beautiful ladies, with the abundant service of refreshments kept up until after "low twelve" were all so agreeable that the St John's forgot time distance and temperature of the march in the joy and pleasure and confined of that delightful and pleasant occasion

At eleven o clock on Saturday escorted to the Auburn station by a delegation of Lewiston Sir Knights, St John's Commandery left for the Crawford House, arriving at 4 o'clock The ride was greatly enjoyed by every one but especially by those of our party who had not been on the road before As we climb up our winding way, up amongst the mountains the unobstructed view from the Observation car, was grand and inspiring Every moment some new turn would produce startling effects, eliciting expressions of admiration wonder and awe, from all

In the Crawford we found another mansion in the hotel line, up there amongst the clouds, perfect and complete in every respect, with every comfort and luxury that could be asked for

Sunday St John's day, was spent in that delightful place, with temperature just right 65° above A large party went to the Summit House, enjoying every moment of their trip, while those who remained "at home" passed the time in conversation, reading and sacred music, and with the greatest propriety

In the evening we enjoyed a grand concert of sacred music Our party happily contained many fine singers, Mrs Simpson, Mrs Roberts and other ladies with Sir Knight Dickey and other gentlemen We were especially fortunate in having with us the accomplished pianist Miss Jennie Dickey, whose pleasant, winning manners and great skill on the Chickering Grand were highly appreciated by every member of the party

On Monday morning at 9 30 we left the Crawford, having passed almost two days amongst the wildest, grandest, most impressive mountain scenery in New England, and started for Portland, our party all clam-oring to see their friends of St Albans Arriving in Portland at 12 30 St. Albans Eminent Commander, Farrington, were in readiness to receive us The two Commanderies marched directly across the city (about two miles) to the steamer, which took us directly to Diamond Island and the clam bake Arriving at that lovely spot—after a time spent in rambling over the island, inspecting the internal arrangements of the beautiful cottages and going through certain preliminaries, the whole party took seats by the shore, with the lovely harbor dotted with innumerable pleasure resorts, lying before us, and consumed an hour and a half in a grand, combined, well sustained attack on the good things before us, All were clam-orous, eggs-aminiug, and disposing of the bivalves, sweet potatoes, coffee, beans and brown bread, with which the tables were loaded, until each one fell back eggs-hausted, and crying, hold' enough.

As soon as the party were sufficiently recovered, the order to fall in was given, and the line was again taken for Congress street station The train had been kept for us a half hour, so we hurriedly took our leave of our courteous, hospitable fraters of St. Albans and started for home, arriving in Bangor by special from Waterville, at 10.15 P. M.

Thus terminated the very successful and pleasant pilgrimage of St. John's Commandery to the White Mountains The Commandery is very largely indebted for its success to Sir Knight Benson, who planned and perfected the arrangements for the excursion, giving it the great benefit of his personal supervision. We are also indebted to Sir Knight A. B. Marston, Grand Generalissimo of the Grand Commandery, whose intimate personal acquaintance with every prominent Mason and Sir Knight in the State, made his presence with us peculiarly valuable.

But how can we fully express the obligations of the whole party to the Piscataquis contingent, Sir Knights Thompson, Packard, Johnson, Shaw, Poole, Johnston and Penney, with their ladies, together with the Oak and his attendant Ivy. They were each and all, full, yes, overflowing, with song and story, wit and sentiment, fun and repartee, from the commencement to the close, from the start to the finish. Who would not like to go upon a pilgrimage (through the world even) with such delightful companions? They are all right, but they will please remember, that the next time we all meet, we shall insist upon the completion of those two songs, which were not finished for want of time Sir Knights Oak and Packard will understand F

ORRINGTON'S CENTENNIAL

Programme for the Exercises To Morrow

The exercises attending the celebration of the centennial of the settlement of the town of Orrington, of which announcement was made in THE WHIG, have been fully completed and the programme appears below, and it will doubtless be enjoyed by a very large audience composed of former residents, descendants of the early settlers and others The historical address by Col J W Porter will be of deep interest as will also be the address of ex Vice President Hamlin and the oration by Rev Mark Trafton D D, while the poem by Mrs H G Rowe of this city, will be a marked feature of the occasion The war record of the town, than which none in the State has a better, the sketches of the old families and short addresses from various persons will fill out a fine and interesting programme The Bangor band will furnish music One interesting episode will be the presentation to the people of the oldest inhabitant of the town if not the State, Mrs Azubah Ryder aged 104 years

The exercises will commence at 10 o'clock A M, standard and persons going from this city can take either the cars or the little steamer M & M the latter leaving here at 8 A M and returning at 5 P M also making five round trips between these hours as will be seen by the time table in another column Following is the

The Bangor Opera Company

The Bangor Opera Company made its first appearance in this city last evening in The Two Vagabonds and gave a remarkably good performance of that amusing opera. The one thing lacking on the part of some of the principals as well as chorus is animation a minor fault in the presentation of a new piece and with the necessity of familiarity with stage business of the opera the company is bound to meet with marked success Miss Annie Chester makes a very pretty Fanchon and possesses a fine voice which she handles with great skill in her solo parts which were received with much favor Her first song being warmly encored Miss Larose as Rosalie was a marked favorite and after one of these she ... which followed one of her solos ... with fine effect was presented with a handsome bouquet Miss ... Mulligan ... the Princess Pompadour ... strong hit Of the gentlemen Messrs Owen and Lodge were of course, the central figures as the vagabonds and were greeted with rounds of applause Both were excellent in their respective roles Mr Dinsmore as the Marquis Mr Binkhourst as the Count, Mr Storr as Captain Pistil and Mr F H Davis as Gigot were all good The large audience present was highly pleased as was shown by the liberal applause accorded to the company

To-night the company plays in Skowhegan and the people of that town will no doubt give them a cordial reception

Something New IN DECORATIVE ART.

Having acquired the proprietorship of a new and beautiful process of decorating walls, panels, ceilings, pottery, or in fact, any surface desired, I now desire to extend the practice of the method, and to that end am prepared to sell rights for Bangor, Brewer and Orrington. The work is extremely simple and can readily be done by any intelligent person. This is an exceptionable opportunity for bright young men desiring an employment at once light, pleasant and profitable. I will instruct any person purchasing the exclusive right for any of the towns mentioned, so that they may go to teaching and selling individual rights at once. The work is exceedingly inexpensive, and its beauty, together with its manifest superiority over any other paint, recommends it at once. Those interested are invited generally, can see samples of the work at ... Square.

OVER THE BORDER.

By WALTER BESANT.

"'Tis a strange thing," said the fugleman, turning the unopened letter over and over in his hand; "'tis a strange thing; here is a letter, which tells me I know not what—comes from I know not where. I have paid three shillings and eight pence for it. A great sum. I doubt I was a fool. It may mean money, and it may mean loss."

"Here is a letter."

"Burn it, and ha' done," said Sailor Nan. "'Tis from some land shark. Burn the letter."

"I am 60, or mayhap 70 years of age. Sixty, I must a be. Yes, sure and certain, 60. Yet never a letter in all my days before."

Now, which is very singular, not the least suspicion in our minds as to the writer of the letter.

"Is it," I asked, "from a cousin or a brother?"

"Cousin!" he repeated, with the shadow of a smile across his stiff lips. "Why, I never had a father or a mother, to say nothing of a brother or a cousin. When I first remember anything I was running in the streets with other boys. We stole our breakfast, we stole our dinner, and we stole our supper. Where are they all now, those little rogues and pickpockets, my companions? Hanged, I doubt not. What but hanging can have come to them? But as for me, by the blessing of the Lord, I was enlisted in the Fourteenth Line, and after a few hundreds taken mostly by three dozen doses, which new are neither here nor there, and are the making of a lad, I was flogged into a good soldier, and so rose as was due to merit. A hearty three dozen, now and then, laid on with a will in the cool of the morning, works miracles. Not such a regiment in the service as the Fourteenth. And why? Because the colonel knew his duty and did it without fear or favor, and the men were properly trounced. Good comrades all, and brave boys. And where are they? Dead, I take it; beggars, some, fallen in action, some broke, some, in comfortable berths, like me, some. If all were living, who would there be to send me a letter, seeing there wasn't a man in all the regiment who could write?"

Strange that not one of us even then guessed the truth.

It was a great letter, thick and carefully sealed, addressed to "Fugleman Furlong, at his room in the Castle of Warkworth, Northumberland, England." It came from foreign parts, and the paper was not only stained, but had a curious fragrance.

I broke the seal and tore open the covering of the letter. Within was another packet. Oh, heavens! It was addressed to "Drusilla Hetherington, care of the fugleman, to be forwarded without delay. Haste—post haste!"

And then I knew without waiting to open the letter that it would be from none other than Ralph. It must be from Ralph. After all these years, we were to hear once more from Ralph. I stood pale and trembling, nor could I for some moments even speak. At last I said:

"Fugleman—Nan—this letter is addressed to me. It is, I verily believe, from Ralph Embleton. Wait a little, while I read it."

"Read it—read it!" cried the old man.

Could I—ah! merciful heaven—could I ever forget the rapture, the satisfied yearning, the blissful content, the gratitude, with which I read that sweet and precious letter? They waited patiently; even the rude and coarse old woman refrained from speech while I read page after page. They said nothing though they saw the tears falling down my face, because they knew that they were tears of happiness.

After seven long years my Ralph was talking to me as he used to talk. I knew his voice, I recognized his old imperious way. I saw that he had not changed. As if he would ever change!

When I had finished and dried my tears they begged me to read his letter to them.

"MY DEAR, DEAR GIRL,"—I told them that I could not, indeed, read all, but that I would read them what I could, and this was the beautiful beginning, in order that I should know at the outset, so thoughtful he was, and for fear of my being anxious on the point, that he loved me still, and had never forgotten me. "My dear, dear girl—It is now six years since I bade you farewell at your garden gate and started upon my journey to London. Your father has doubtless told you how I presented myself and with what kindness he received me. I am very sure that you have not forgotten me, and I hope that you will rejoice to hear of my good fortune." Hope, indeed! Could he not be sure? "I have no doubt, also, that he hath informed you of the strange good fortune which befell me after he left me at the East India company's house, of which I told him by letter and special messenger, to whom I gave, to insure speedy and safe delivery, one shilling." (But it would appear that this messenger broke his word, and took the shilling, but did nothing for it—a common thief, who deserved to be hanged, like many another—no more wicked than himself. Oh! what punishment too great for this breach of trust, small as it seemed! See, now what a world of trouble was caused by that little theft.) "It was truly by special providence that, while Mr. Silvertop talked with me, the great captain who won the Battle of Plassy should have been standing near and should have over heard what passed. When I was bidden go my ways for a foolish boy, (because I did not wish to be a writer) and waste his time no longer, I was much cast down, for now I began to fear that I must, like the most of mankind, take what was assigned to me by providence rather than what I should like. And I could plainly see that there remained only one choice for me; namely, I must return to the hated rule of my cousin, who would keep me as a plowboy as long as he could, or I must betake me to the task of sweeping out and serving a shop. And yet, what shop? But who would employ me? Therefore I hung my head and stood irresolute without the company's house. Now presently the gentleman whom I had seen within came forth with another officer, brave in scarlet. He saw me standing sadly beside the posts, and inspired by that noble generosity which has always distinguished this great man, he clapped his hand upon my shoulder.

"'So,' he said, 'you are the lad who loves a sword better than a pen?'

"'If it please your honor,' I replied.

"'A sword means peril to life and limb,' he said sternly; 'he who goes a-fighting in India must expect hard fate, rough sleeping, rude knocks. He must be ever on the watch against treachery. He must meet duplicity with equal cunning. He must obey blindly; he must never ask why; if he is sent to die like a rat in a hole, he must go without murmur or question. What! you think—do you?—that to carry a sword is to flaunt a scarlet coat before the ladies of St. James?'

"'Nay, sir, with respect. I have read the lives of soldiers. I would willingly take the danger for the sake of the honor. But alas! I must stay at home and sweep a shop.'

"'What is thy birth, boy?'

"I told him that, and satisfied him on other points, including the reason of my flight, in which I trust that I was no more than truthful. Then he said:

"'I am Lord Clive,' and paused as if to know whether I had heard of him.

"You may be sure I was astonished, but I quickly doffed my hat and made him my best country bred bow.

"'My lord,' I said, 'we have heard, even in Northumberland, of Plassy.'

"'Good! I went to India as a writer—a miserable quill driving writer. Think of that. What one man has done another may do. Now, boy, I sail this day for India. There will be more fighting, a great deal more fighting. If you please you shall go as a cadet with me. But there is no time to hesitate; I sail this day. Choose between the shop sweeping and the musket. You will fight in the ranks at first, but if you behave well the sword will come after. Choose—peace and money scraping at home like these smug faced fat citizens,' he swept his hand with lordly contempt, 'or fighting and poverty, and perhaps death abroad. Choose.'

"'I humbly thank your lordship,' I said, 'I will follow you if you will condescend to take me.'

"Then he bade me go straight to Limehouse Pool, where I should find the ship at anchor. I was to take a note to the purser, who would give me an outfit.

"Thus, my dear Drusilla, did I find my fortune and sail to foreign parts under as brave and great a captain as this country will ever see.

SORE FROM KNEE TO ANKLE.

Skin entirely gone. Flesh a mass of disease. Leg diminished one-third in size. Condition hopeless. Cured by the Cuticura Remedies.

For three years I was almost crippled with an awful sore leg from my knee down to my ankle; the skin was entirely gone, and the flesh was one mass of disease. Some physicians pronounced it incurable. It had diminished about one third the size of the other, and I was in a hopeless condition. After trying all kinds of remedies and spending hundreds of dollars, from which I got no relief whatever, I was persuaded to try your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and the result was as follows: After three days I noticed a decided change for the better, and at the end of two months I was completely cured. My flesh was purified, and the bone (which had been exposed for over a year) got sound. The flesh began to grow, and to-day, and for nearly two years past, my leg is as well as ever it was, sound in every respect, and not a sign of the disease to be seen.

S. G. AHERN, Dubois, Dodge Co., Ga.

Terrible Suffering from Skin Diseases.

I have been a terrible sufferer for years from diseases of the skin and blood, and have been obliged to shun public places by reason of my disfiguring humors. Have had the best of physicians and spent hundreds of dollars, but got no relief until I used the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which have cured me, and left my skin as clear and my blood as pure as a child's. IDA MAY BASS, Olive Branch P. O., Miss.

From 145 Pounds to 172 Pounds.

I have taken several bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT with all the results I could wish for. About this time last year, when commencing its use, I weighed 145 pounds, and to-day I weigh 172 pounds.

GEO. CAMPBELL, Washington, D. C.

NOTE.—The CUTICURA RESOLVENT is beyond all doubt the greatest blood purifier ever compounded.

CUTICURA, the great skin cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, externally, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new Blood Purifier, internally, are a positive cure for every form of skin and blood diseases, from pimples to scrofula.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50 cents; SOAP, 25 cents; RESOLVENT, $1.00. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston.

Constitutional Catarrh.

No single disease has entailed more suffering or hastened the breaking up of the constitution than Catarrh. The sense of smell, of taste, of sight, of hearing, the human voice, the mind—one or more, and sometimes all, yield to its destructive influence. The poison it distributes throughout the system attacks every vital force, and breaks up the most robust of constitutions. Ignored, because but little understood, by most physicians, impotently assailed by quacks and charlatans, those suffering from it have little hope to be relieved of it this side of the grave. It is time, then, that the popular treatment of this terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all passed into hands at once competent and trustworthy. The new and hitherto untried method adopted by Dr. Sanford in the preparation of his Radical Cure has won the hearty approval of thousands. It is instantaneous in affording relief in all head colds, sneezing, snuffling and obstructed breathing, and rapidly removes the most oppressive symptoms, clearing the head, sweetening the breath, restoring the senses of smell, taste and hearing, and neutralizing the constitutional tendency of the disease towards the lungs, liver and kidneys.

Sanford's Radical Cure consists of one bottle of the Radical Cure, one box Catarrhal Solvent and an Improved Inhaler, Price, $1.

WARREN'S COUGH BALSAM,

THIS IS AN OLD AND RELIABLE REMEDY

For Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, Diphtheria, etc.

It was originally prepared by the advice and under the supervision of one of the most skillful physicians of the country. From the very first it took high rank among the specifics for those diseases, and ever since it has been growing in favor with the people and the medical profession, as the large number of testimonials in our possession will show. It is pleasant to take and affords quick relief. We offer it to the public, confident that it has no equal for the purposes for which it is commended.
